PUBLIC COMMENT

The following Washington County residents addressed the Commissioners during public comment:

Mary Lorenz was appalled by comments at the last meeting criticizing Trump supporters. She pointed out that the country's immigration and economic systems are broken. She has been married for eight months, yet her maiden name is still listed on the voting rolls. She said she is fighting for her granddaughter's future.

Ashley Duff said she is the elected judge of elections at her precinct and there was a voting machine with no security seal. She was not explicitly taught how to deal with the issue in training and is not sure if the judges in the other 180 precincts would have been looking for security seals. Two to three machines at her precinct also had the wrong dates and times and error messages. She asked the board to act on these matters.

Frank Byrd is concerned about what is going on in the District Attorney's office. He said the Roadway Inn in Washington is a public nuisance and he asked for more money to take care of the issue.

Heather Hudock, an elected judge of elections in her precinct, said election rules are not being followed. She and Sam Yareck were running for precinct committee person against Commissioner Sherman and his wife Heather. She said Commissioner Sherman entered the polling station twice to intimidate and/or improperly influence the election proceedings, violating Pennsylvania State Election Code. She said the President Judge should have appointed someone to fill his position on the Election Board since he was running for office.

Camille Papia responded to the comments made at the last meeting about the crimes in the county over the years. She said it's good that the crimes were discovered, and she believes the Commissioners and county officials handled the incidents with integrity.

Annie Shaner read data from the University of Washington about the attitudes and beliefs growing within the Republican Party, in particular, Trump supporters: the belief that the election was stolen, that Covid-19 is a bioweapon from China, and January 6, was the work of Antifa. She also discussed their views on race, gender, immigration, and the 2020 election.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

Fred Bender said the claims of election fraud in Atlanta, are fiction, as well as the accusations of voter harvesting portrayed in the movie 2000 Mules.

Teresa Montecalvo Cappola discussed mainstream news reports about the election process in France. She said their voting process includes paper ballots that are cast in person and counted by hand. There are no early or mail-in ballots and no voting machines. She said mail-in ballots were banned in 1975 amid fears of potential fraud.

Justin Cappola requested that remote public comments be permitted at the meeting. He also suggested that the meetings be held at a time more convenient for those who work.

Laura Hough discussed data from the Pennsylvania Department of State website in reference to the May 17th Primary Election. She said there are 14 Pennsylvania counties that placed ballot drop boxes outside of their election offices, with 101 boxes being unmanned. She called this a disservice to the voters of Pennsylvania and said it invalidated her vote. She asked the Commissioners to speak with other counties about the issue.
